Problem Statement:

Some students may find it hard to connect with other students who have similar interests to them. We want to create a solution to this problem by developing an application that connects students who have similar interests.

Who is Experiencing the problem?

Students that are new to their area and do not know other people with similar interests to them. Students at large schools also may find it hard to find other students with similar interests.
Students wanting to meet new people with similar hobbies to them.

What is the problem?

The problem is students feel disconnected from each other and want to meet new people

Where does the problem present itself?

- In big high schools
- In a new town/city
- In big college campuses

Why does it matter?

Students who have a good network of friends are more likely to succeed in classes.
